

Skirt Lengths by visuallyappealingllc featuring a white sleeveless dress

Tip #1:

Pair your skirt with a fitted top (the brand Alfani at Macy's has some great ones) or a cinched blazer to create that elongated silhouette we are all searching for.

The black-and-white blazer pictured above is great for accentuating your waist and comes in multiple colors at Macy's. You never know, this blazer might become your go-to piece for fall.

Macy's pairs this blazer with a zipper-front pencil skirt by Grace Elements. I LOVE this piece because the zipper detailing draws the eye down, creating a long a lean silhouette. White House Black Market(WHBM) also has perfect work-appropriate skirts and dresses.

So, an outfit that gives you a cinched waist AND an elongated silhouette?! I think that's a sure winner. Thank you, Grace Elements.

Tip #2:

Go for a pattern! Patterns will spice up your outfit and add some fun to your wardrobe.

Tip #3:

If you don't feel like having to pick out the perfect top to match your new skirt, you can get the same classy look with a swing dress, sheath or shift dress.

Tip #4:

If you want even more options for this below-the-knee look, start by shopping the brands NY Collection, Grace Elements, and Alfani. These three designers are experts on creating pieces that epitomize classic sophistication. WHBM has wonderful above the knee options.

Check back soon, as I will be tackling another fashion “length war” in the coming weeks. But this time, it will be all about the pants.
